LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

from

THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

To His Excellency, the Honorable Richard W. Riley, Governor of South Carolina, and to The Honorable Members of the General Assembly of South Carolina:

It is with pleasure that I submit to you the annual report of the South Carolina State Library. In spite of enduring diminished revenues through State budget cuts and delays in Federal funding, which reduced our abilities to acquire books, periodicals and other information sources, it has nevertheless been a year of small triumphs.

The State Library has been able to maintain information service for State Government, interlibrary loan service for South Carolina libraries and has continued to work with institutional libraries and the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The State Documents Depository System was set in place, on-line computerized reference service utilizing DIALOG data bases was implemented and grants were made to eight county or regional libraries to purchase new bookmobiles to improve service to rural or disadvantaged areas.

The State Library, though remaining understaffed, has also developed guidelines and procedures for library construction grants (funded by Library Services and Construction Act Title II and the Federal Jobs Bill) as well as preparing for a cooperative program with other State agencies to launch a series of literacy projects.

With the limited resources available this past year, I am especially proud of the programs sustained and the projects begun by the State Library.

Respectfully submitted,

Carlanna L. Hendrick

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

Historical Synopsis

The South Carolina State Library's history dates back to 1929. In that year the General Assembly enacted legislation authorizing the establishment of the State Public Library Association, a state library extension agency which was to become the South Carolina State Library Board. Due to the great depression which followed, no funds were appropriated for the new agency, but a Board of five citizens was appointed. The first statewide library program was initiated under the Works Progress Administration from 1935 to 1943. When the WPA went out of existence in 1943, the State Library Board inherited its assets and was given the first state appropriation - $3,000 - to fund the library program for the last third of the fiscal year. For the first full year of operations, 1943-44, the General Assembly appropriated $15,000 to employ staff and to initiate State Aid to county libraries. Nancy C. Blair, supervisor of the state WPA library project, became the first Executive Secretary of the State Library Board. The Board was charged with the duties of creating public libraries throughout the state and extending library service to rural districts.

Estellene Paxton Walker was appointed head of the agency in 1946 and served - as Executive Secretary, Executive Director, and State Librarian - until her retirement in 1979. Under her leadership a master plan for library development was devised which aided in the establishment of county and regional libraries which now serve all of the state's forty-six counties. The pattern of unified county library systems, each legally established and governed by a single library board, made possible a good level of service by eliminating expensive duplication and overhead and by sharing resources and personnel. During the early years of the State Library Board's program, the objectives were to extend public library service, to create a strong legal base for service, to develop local initiative and local support, and to create an understanding of the benefits of public library service and an acceptance of the cost of that service.

When the federal Library Services Act was passed in 1956, Governor George Bell Timmerman, Jr., issued an executive order charging the State Library Board with administering and implementing within the state the library programs provided for in the Act. Through this Act, the agency's functions were expanded to include service to the blind and physically handicapped, development of library service in state institutions, and interlibrary cooperation. The original LSA/LSCA programs were designed to remedy major deficiencies - units of service too small for economical service, a shortage of qualified professional personnel, inadequate book collections, and inadequate library housing.

In 1965, partially as a result of the First Governor's Conference on Public Libraries, the General Assembly appropriated matching funds to make possible the construction of a new building for the State Library Board through the Library Services and Construction Act. Before the new building was occupied in February 1970, an act (S. C. Code, 1976, 60-1-10 et seq.) was passed by the General Assembly in 1967, to become effective July 1, 1969, redesignating the State Library Board as the South Carolina State Library and making it responsible for public library development, library service for State institutions, service for the blind and physically handicapped, and library service to State Government and State Government agencies. In 1973 the South Carolina State Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped was established and now serves more than 8,000 registered borrowers. Act 348 of 1982 made the State Library the official state documents depository and authorized the establishment of a system of regional depositories in existing libraries.

Since 1969, the State Library has had a dual role. As the library extension agency it provides a staff of consultants to assist public and state institutional libraries in strengthening services; maintains a comprehensive collection of books, documents, periodicals, films and other materials to supplement local library holdings; operates a reference and interlibrary loan service to provide information not available at the local level; and administers state and federal aid to libraries. As a reference and research library for State Government, the State Library supplies legislators, officials, research staff, and State agency personnel with the facts, statistics, or technical data required for planning and decision making. It answers questions, lends books and materials, researches issues, prepares bibliographies, collects state and federal documents, and provides information about legislation and programs of other states and the U. S. Government.

Because county libraries were originally established by individual enabling acts passed by the General Assembly, the effects of the 1975 Home Rule Act upon local legislation necessitated passage of a statewide library act. In 1978 the Legislature amended the Home Rule Act to require counties to provide library systems. Act 564 (S. C. Code, 1979 Supp., Sec. 4-9-35 et seq.) stated:

> "The General Assembly finds that county public libraries make a substantial contribution to the education and recreation of the residents of the State and merit the continued interest and support of State and local government."

In 1979 the South Carolina Governor's Conference and the White House Conference on Library and Information Services mobilized public support for libraries, focused on the special needs of the handicapped, and stimulated interest in library cooperation. The Task Force on Library Automation and Networking, created by the State Library, became an agent for exchange of information and for planning of a statewide bibliographic network.

Since 1967 the State's financial support for public libraries has grown substantially. In that year State Aid for public libraries was changed from $1,500 per county to 20¢ per capita ($69,650). Gradual increases in per capita support resulted from the joint efforts of librarians, trustees, and Friends of Libraries. The appropriation for FY 83 was reduced from 75¢ per capita to 71¢ per capita due to budget reductions. This was the second year in which reductions were made in State Aid. The FY 84 appropriation restores State Aid to 75¢ per capita ($2,214,638).

The South Carolina State Library exists to serve citizens, libraries, and government. Its goals are to provide the library services and resources needed by the people of South Carolina and to give every individual access to the informational resources of the state. Whenever possible these responsibilities are met by means of programs designed to strengthen and improve the public and State institutional libraries which serve the public. When economy or efficiency so dictate, the State Library serves library users directly, as in service to State Government or service to the blind and physically handicapped. An on-going objective is to encourage cooperative activities and sharing of resources by all South Carolina libraries.

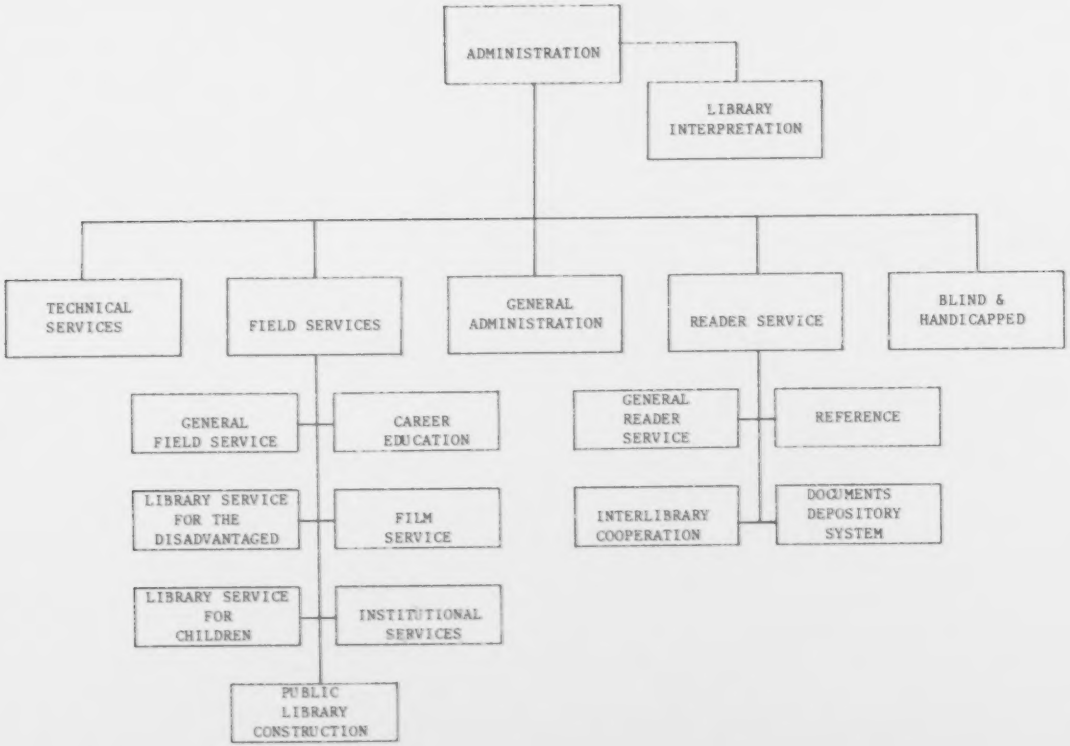
Highlights of 1982-83

1982-83 was a year of accomplishments in spite of budget problems and legal challenges. The State Documents Depository System was successfully implemented, making the State Library the central state documents depository and establishing affiliated depositories in eight college and two public libraries. The purpose is to make state generated information more accessible to the public. The Reader Services staff initiated Data Search, on-line computer assisted bibliographic reference service. The first two of a series of Cooperative Reference Exchanges were held to promote cooperation among different types of libraries and to acquaint their staffs with State Library resources and services. Workshops for public and institutional library personnel on service to the deaf and literacy programs stimulated new awareness and activities in these areas. Four metropolitan libraries now offer special services for the deaf including TDD communication systems. The State Library joined with the Lieutenant Governor, Office of Adult Education, and the South Carolina Literacy Association in planning a six-county assault on illiteracy to be carried out in 1983-84.

Library Services and Construction Act Title I grants helped eight county and regional libraries to purchase new bookmobiles in order to improve service to rural and disadvantaged areas. A ninth grant was approved and another bookmobile will be delivered in the next fiscal year. In March Congress passed the FY 83 Emergency Supplemental Funding Act or Jobs Bill which provides funding for the Library Services and Construction Act Title II construction program for the first time in ten years. South Carolina will receive $779,110 under this program for the construction or renovation of public library buildings in high unemployment areas. Twenty-one counties have expressed interest in construction projects. LSCA Title III grants were used to fund projects which will contribute to development of a state bibliographic data base and an eventual statewide library network. The University of South Carolina, Clemson University, Winthrop College, the College of Charleston, and the Richland County Public Library received grants to continue the retrospective conversion of library holdings; the Horry County Memorial Library received a grant to assist in becoming a member of the Southeastern Library Network; and final grants were made to the three SOLINET clusters previously established. In cooperation with the USC School of Medicine library, work was begun on a computerized union list of serials with Columbia area libraries being the first to have holdings entered into the data base. The USC Cooper Library and the State Library are cooperating in planning for a South Carolina newspaper project to be partially funded by grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities. LSCA grants were used to employ a consultant to plan this project and to purchase a microfilm camera for USC to utilize in duplicating newspaper files.

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY



The South Carolina State Library hosted the meeting of COSLA, the Chief Officers of State Library Agencies, in Columbia in October 1982. Other noteworthy events included the presentation of the State Library's first public service award to Representative Alex Harvin III and the SCLA Friend of Libraries Award to Senator Tom Smith and Representative Harriet Keyserling for their services to South Carolina libraries. "Your Library - Check It Out", a statewide promotional program was carried out, and forty-five public library systems joined with the State Library in sponsoring the Book Invader Summer Reading Program for children.

On the negative side, South Carolina libraries were hard hit by the economic recession of 1981 through 1983. A series of mid-year State budget cuts caused a reduction in State Aid to public libraries and in the State Library's book budget and operating funds. LSCA was carried out under a continuing resolution all year since Congress never passed an Education - Human Services appropriation bill. Many public libraries experienced either reductions or freezes in local appropriations; but State institutions experienced the most severe cutbacks in funding. Through the efforts of librarians, trustees, and users, highlighted by the Second Annual Library Legislative Day in February, State Aid for public libraries was restored to 75¢ per capita for 1983-84. The financial difficulties caused careful reassessment of services, goals, and priorities; but in some cases also led to political conflicts. In one county, the county council proposed to set aside the authority of the library board and assume control of library operations. An opinion from the Attorney General upheld the authority of the library board under Act 564 of 1978, thus strengthening the role of library boards in dealing with county authorities.

The State Library Board

The South Carolina State Library is an independent State agency governed by a library board of seven members named by the Governor, with one member from each Congressional District and one from the State-at-large. Act 317 of 1980 changed terms of board members from four to five years and reestablished staggered appointments.

READER SERVICES

The Reader Services Department provides assistance in the use of the reference and information resources of the State Library. Members of state government and state agencies make direct use of the library's resources. Citizens of the state have access to the library's services through their local public library.

Reference and Information Service to State Government

Access to current and retrospective information is a basic requirement for effective government. The State Library serves as a major research facility designed to supply materials to meet the information and education needs of state government and state agencies. The State Library's collection of books, journals, microforms, and government documents is continually updated by the selection and purchase of new materials which reflect recent developments in research areas of interest to state government. The staff works closely with agencies to determine materials to be purchased and placed in the State Library, thereby providing centralized access and reducing unnecessary duplication. During the past year, special emphasis was placed on the purchase of materials on computer literacy, computer science, and office automation. To inform state personnel of new publications, the State Library publishes and distributes monthly New Resources, a selective listing of items recently added to the collection.

The State Library provides several specialized collections which provide extensive information on major topics. The Education Resource Information Center (ERIC) contains more than 225,000 documents on microfiche dealing with all phases of education. The collection is used extensively by educators, planners, and students. Since 1972, the State Library has participated as a cooperating collection in the Foundation Center's nationwide network of reference collections containing information on funding sources and grantsmanship. This collection is used heavily by individuals and organizations seeking grants. In order to publicize the availability of this excellent resource, the Junior League of Columbia, Inc. in cooperation with the State Library developed and published a brochure describing the collection. The League also provided funding for the purchase of audio-visual equipment for individualized instruction in grantsmanship.

The State Library has an extensive collection of information from the U. S. Bureau of the Census. The library cooperates with the South Carolina State Data Center in providing convenient citizen access to census publications. Since much census information is only available in microfiche format, the State Library uses its microfiche duplicating equipment to supply copies of important census publications to state data center affiliates, regional planning councils, and citizens.

A staff of professional reference librarians works closely with state personnel to locate information and assist in research. As an enhancement to this reference service, the State Library began offering computerized reference service in April 1983. This service, known as DATA SEARCH, utilizes the more than 175 automated bibliographic databases containing over 80 million citations offered by DIALOG Information Services, Inc. Many of these databases contain information not available in printed format at the State Library. DATA SEARCH offers the user rapid, complete, and often time-saving researching capabilities. The charge for each computer search includes computer time and communication cost and is paid by the requester.

The State Library continued participation in the Library of Congress' Cooperative Reference Program, whereby reference questions from South Carolina citizens are routed from LC to the State Library. A professional staff member attended the week-long Cooperative Reference Exchange sponsored by the Library of Congress. This program was designed to foster closer cooperation between State Library agencies and the Library of Congress. As a result, the State Library has been able to more effectively access the holdings of the Library of Congress in meeting the information requests of South Carolinians.

During 1982-83, state employees and members of state government borrowed 22,268 books, and the reference staff processed 6,383 reference questions.

Legislative Reference Service

Since 1974, the State Library has provided special information services for members of the General Assembly. A reference librarian from the State Library works closely with legislators, committee researchers, and legislative interns to identify research needs. The reference staff from the State Library is available to either perform the needed research or to direct individuals to the best source of information. Some legislators familiar with the service telephone the library directly with their requests. In the past year, legislators and their researchers borrowed 1,103 books and submitted 420 reference questions. The State Library provided free of charge 3,069 pages of photocopy in response to reference questions.

Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service

The State Library functions as the central unit of a statewide interlibrary loan network designed to supplement and coordinate library resources in South Carolina. The Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service, drawing on the research collection of the State Library, works with local libraries to supply South Carolinians with materials and information not available in their own communities. Public and state institutional libraries have direct access to the State Library via an In-WATS telephone service which allows interlibrary loan requests to be submitted and processed rapidly. To allow librarians to determine the holdings of the State Library as quickly as possible, a microfilm copy of the library's catalog has been placed in public libraries throughout South Carolina. The State Library has also regularly distributed a list of its periodical holdings to public and academic libraries within the state.

Since no single library can supply all materials required by its patrons, the State Library has acquired sources necessary to access collections within the state and the nation. For most technical and comprehensive requests requiring location of materials either in the state or outside South Carolina, the library makes use of various union catalogs and the resources of the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET). SOLINET provides on-line access to a computerized database of over 8 million items held by more than 3300 libraries. The State Library uses this database to verify title locations and to receive requests through the Interlibrary Loan Subsystem from other member libraries. To deal with increasingly sophisticated requests, Interlibrary Loan is investigating the feasibility of computer-assisted reference as an enhancement of its service. A six month examination of the effectiveness of the State Library's DATA SEARCH Service began in April 1983.

As part of a continuing effort to upgrade the reference capabilities of library personnel in South Carolina libraries, the State Library sponsored the first two of a series of Cooperative Reference Exchanges in May. These workshops were attended by 31 public services librarians from 27 public and academic libraries. The two-day sessions provided an opportunity for reference personnel in various types of libraries to meet and exchange information and ideas concerning reference service. Since the meetings were held at the State Library, participants were also able to discuss and examine the policies, services, and collections of the library itself. This series of Exchanges will continue in the fall of 1983.

To encourage better use of the State Library's reference service by South Carolina libraries, the Interlibrary Loan Librarian made six field trips to local libraries and met with six county librarians at the State Library to discuss interlibrary loan procedures and techniques.

The State Library, following its commitment to the concept of resource sharing among all types of libraries in this state, began in September 1981 to provide expanded interlibrary loan service to South Carolina academic and special libraries in addition to its traditional services to public libraries. In keeping with its goal of encouraging library cooperation, the State Library continues to fill book and periodical requests and provide location information to academic and special libraries throughout the state. A total of 2,928 books and 8,211 pages of photocopy were sent to these libraries in 1982-83.

During 1982-83, the Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service received 5,138 In-WATS calls, answered 5,348 reference and 19,808 title requests, and supplied 23,907 books and 22,334 pages of photocopy in response to interlibrary loan requests.

Government Documents

Government documents, the official publications of the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of governments, form the core of information the State Library collects about the United States and South Carolia governments. Subjects covered by documents range from how to grow blackberries to how to safely transport nuclear waste; therefore they are as useful to consumers seeking general information as to researchers seeking detailed information.

The State Library has been a federal depository library since 1970. The depository system, operated by the U. S. Superintendent of Documents, enables the Library to receive selected federal documents free of charge. During 1982-83, 4,679 paper documents were added for a total collection of 59,902. Reflecting economy measures at the federal level, 14,174 pieces of microfiche were received and added for a total of 32,081. The move to microfiche publishing began in 1980-81 and has increased by 33% and 38% for the past two fiscal years.

At the request of the Superintendent of Documents, the State Library coordinated the development of a State Plan for federal depository libraries in South Carolina. The purpose of the plan is to coordinate services among the 17 depository libraries in South Carolina. The State Plan was submitted in May for approval by the Government Printing Office. If the State Plan is approved as written, Clemson University, the University of South Carolina, and Winthrop College libraries will share regional depository responsibilities, with administrative and documents disposal support from the State Library.

Implementation of the State Documents Depository Act was the major occurence in state documents this fiscal year. The State Library 1) contacted all state agencies and institutions to make them aware of their responsibilities under the Act, 2) contacted all public and academic libraries, inviting them to apply for affiliate depository status, 3) designated ten of these in-state libraries to serve as affiliates, and 4) developed procedures for processing and distributing documents to affiliate libraries. The ten affiliate depository libraries are: Clemson University, College of Charleston, Francis Marion College, Greenville County Library, Lander College, South Carolina State College, Spartanburg County Library, USC - Beaufort, USC - Coastal Carolina and Winthrop College. The Library of Congress and the Center for Research Libraries in Chicago also receive copies of South Carolina state publications.

During 1982-83, the State Library cataloged 458 new titles for the state documents collection and distributed 543 cataloged publications to affiliate libraries. 3,502 documents were added to the State Library holdings, making a total collection of 30,869. The Checklist of South Carolina State Publications, a listing of publications of state agencies and institutions received by the State Library, became a quarterly publication with a cumulative index to make it a more timely reference source.

Library Network Development

A library has the responsibility to serve as an information resource to meet the technological, commercial, recreational, social and cultural needs of its community. The growth of information is so explosive and vast that no one library can have all of the information that its users might need. Libraries have a collective responsibility to share resources and information to enable each user to obtain needed information. As a result, libraries are joining together in cooperative networks at the local, state, and national levels. In South Carolina, the State Library plans to develop a statewide network of libraries utilizing computerized databases and telecommunication links which will provide effective access to the holdings of libraries around the state. The development of a statewide network will improve the cost effectiveness of operations and services through cooperative automation and resource sharing and will enable any South Carolinian to draw upon the holdings of the State's total library resources.

Planning for the statewide library network is being accomplished by the State Library and the South Carolina Task Force on Library Automation and Networking which the State Library organized in 1979. The Task Force, composed of representatives of public, academic, school and special libraries, has the responsibility of making recommendations concerning library automation activities which will assure the maximum use of existing systems and the orderly development of future systems compatible with each other. A network feasibility study conducted by Metrics Research Corporation in 1981 concluded that a network based on computer technology was feasible for South Carolina. Since state funding which is required for this network development has not been secured, the State Library continues to work with the Task Force on Library Automation and Networking to perform research and make plans which will lay the ground work for the development of the network. During the year, a LSCA Title III grant was made to the University of South Carolina College of Library and Information Science for the establishment of an Automation Information Clearinghouse which has the responsibility of gathering and disseminating information on library automation activities within the state. To assist libraries planning automated circulation systems, the Task Force issued a publication entitled Automated Circulation System: A Guide for Preparing a Request for Proposal. This publication provides the basic criteria to assure that libraries investing in automated circulation systems will have products which are capable of interfacing with other systems in the state.

Many of the state's libraries presently belong to the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET), one of the major regional library networks in the country providing cooperative cataloging and location services. Participation by these libraries in SOLINET provides the basis for development of a state library network. To encourage additional membership of south Carolina libraries in SOLINET, the State Library has used LSCA Title III grants for the establishment of SOLINET clusters and additional SOLINET memberships by South Carolina libraries. The SOLINET cluster arrangement enables two or more libraries to share a common computer terminal, thereby reducing costs and permitting smaller libraries to benefit from automation. The Spartanburg cluster (Wofford College, Converse College, and Spartanburg County Library) and the Florence cluster (Florence-Darlington TEC, and Florence and Darlington County Libraries) completed the third year of a three-year project in March 1983. In both cases, libraries have benefitted by participation in SOLINET and realized increased efficiency and access to the resources of other libraries. A third cluster in Greenwood composed of Lander College, Piedmont TEC, and Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library completed the second year of a three-year demonstration in January 1983. An important aspect of database development is the conversion of book holdings owned prior to participation in SOLINET into machine readable format. This process is known as retrospective conversion. The State Library has awarded grants to Clemson University, the University of South Carolina, the Richland County Public Library, the Winthrop College Library and the College of Charleston Library to assist in their retrospective conversion projects.

TECHNICAL SERVICES

The Technical Services Department coordinates the selection, ordering and processing of all materials for the State Library collection, including audio- visual materials and large type books for the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The book stock is a one copy, non-fiction collection, except for South Carolina titles. It includes periodicals and newspapers in both paper and microfilm, and services such as ERIC in microfiche. There are separate collections of both federal and state documents. Principal additions during the year are as follows:

Item	Additions	Total
Books	4,154	165,752
State Documents	3,502	30,869
Federal Documents in print	4,679	59,902
Federal Documents in microfiche	14,174	32,081
Microfilm reels	593	14,451
Microfiche	18,950	257,450

Being a member of Southeastern Library Network, a computerized network of libraries affiliated with the national network, OCLC, Inc., has made it possible to continue input of our retrospective holdings into the data base.

The number of retrospective titles added this year was 28,191, bringing the three year total to 74,466 titles. Increased requests for these older titles have been noted by Interlibrary Loan.

State Documents Depository legislation became effective July 1. This brought an increase in the receipt of items. Cataloging for all titles was distributed with the items. The Checklist of State Documents was changed from an annual to a quarterly publication in order to facilitate public service of depository items.

The second supplement to the 1979 edition of the public catalog was filmed and distributed to the county libraries. The primary use of this microfilm is for interlibrary loan to those libraries that are not members of SOLINET and have no other way of knowing our holdings.

FIELD SERVICES

The Field Services Program has as its primary goal the extension and improvement of public library service throughout the state and of library service in the state institutions. Public library development is carried out by a team of four general consultants who serve as liaison between the State Library and the thirty-nine county or regional library systems which provide service to all of the state's forty-six counties. Specific county and regional library assignments are made to them. The nature of the work which these generalists do with local libraries depends upon the level of library service in the system and on the training, expertise, and experience of the individual librarians. The state institutional consultant performs the same function in thirty-four institutional libraries. Two specialists on the Field Services Staff work with all public and state institutional libraries in the areas of children's services and film services.

In general, the Field Services Program serves as a catalyst for improvement of service in public and institutional libraries. The role of the Field Staff is to assist librarians, trustees, citizens, and administrators of state institutions in determining the library needs of their communities and ways to meet those needs; to provide in-service training on a one-to-one basis, in meetings, and through statewide workshops; to explore solutions to local problems with library directors and boards; and to provide ideas and information on diverse topics such as construction, staff development, and budget presentation. It is the responsibility of the Field Staff to supervise the administration of State Aid to public libraries and to monitor grants-in-aid under the Library Services and Construction Act to public and state institutional libraries. In the latter case, they assist local librarians with needs assessments and in developing grant applications to address weaknesses. During fiscal 1982-83, the Field Service Librarians:

-- worked with the 39 public library systems serving 46 counties of the state and with the 34 institutional libraries maintained by 7 State departments and agencies;
-- made 353 field trips to public libraries;
-- made 91 field trips to institutional libraries;
-- attended 71 local library board meetings;

-- monitored library budgets including approximately $12.5 million in local funds;
-- administered $2,214,638 in State Aid grants to public libraries;
-- supervised LSCA projects providing approximately $554,100 in grants-in-aid to public libraries and $49,532 in grants to state institutional libraries;
-- represented the State Library at local, state, and national conferences, conventions, workshops, professional associations, building dedications, civic organizations, and other state and local meetings;
-- provided recruiting, placement, and training services for public librarians and for librarians in the state institutions.

State Aid for Public Libraries

Recognizing the State's responsibility for the support of public libraries as part of South Carolina's total educational and cultural program, the General Assembly appropriated $2,339,406 to the State Library for distribution in 1983 -- at 75¢ per capita -- to county and regional libraries. Immediately after the start of the fiscal year, a 4.6% reduction was ordered and a $124,768 funding decrease resulted in cuts ranging from $370 to $11,518 for individual libraries. During the remainder of the year, there was a continuing threat of further reductions, but these did not materialize.

During FY 83, librarians, trustees, Friends, and patrons worked to inform members of the General Assembly of the needs of public libraries and the level of funding at 75¢ per capita was reinstated for FY 84.

To participate in the State Aid program, public libraries must be legally established, provide county-wide library service, maintain levels of county funding, and meet certain standards of service. The regulations under which the State Library administers the State Aid program ensure that State funds will not replace local funds and that the funds will be used to achieve a higher level of public library service and ensure that each citizen of the state has access to such service. Qualifying libraries may use State Aid funds to supplement staff salaries, to purchase books and audio-visual materials, to purchase or lease equipment, and to operate and maintain bookmobiles.

Federal Aid to South Carolina Libraries

The purposes of the Library Services and Construction Act include the improvement and extension of public library service, the improvement of library service for certain priority groups, the construction of public library buildings, the strengthening of state library agencies, and promotion of interlibrary cooperation among all types of libraries.

Federal aid is used in South Carolina to supplement and reinforce State Aid to libraries, to provide the incentive for improved local support, and to provide a better level of service for all South Carolinians. A major objective is the extension of service to the unserved and the inadequately served. All forty-six counties in the state now have legally established unified county library systems providing every South Carolinian with access to public library service.

Title I of LSCA provides for improved service to public and institutional libraries and to certain segments of the population. LSCA grants-in-aid have been used to strengthen book and periodical collections, to initiate new programs of service, and to improve the level of service in existing programs. The quality of library personnel has improved because of the recruitment of new staff and the continuing education of existing staff. With the help of LSCA funds, libraries are reaching out to help the culturally disadvantaged, the functionally illiterate, the elderly, the handicapped, and isolated people who need special services. LSCA also provides grants to improve library service in state-supported institutions.

For a ten year period, 1964-1973, LSCA Title II provided monies for public library construction. In 1983 after ten years without LSCA funding for public library construction, funds again became available through Public Law 98-8, The Emergency Supplemental Funding Act (Jobs Bill). Twenty-one library systems have expressed need for LSCA construction funds. Due to the late receipt of funding, construction projects will begin in FY 84.

Title III programs have helped promote interlibrary cooperation and resource sharing. LSCA has contributed to improved communications, bibliographic access, interlibrary loan, in-service training, study and planning. Current Title III projects are designed to contribute to the long-range goal of establishing a state bibliographic network. The building of a statewide data base will help eliminate expensive duplication of materials and will make the state's library resources available to all South Carolinians.

In FY 83 the State Library received $869,366 for Title I, $779,110 for Title II, and $167,234 for Title III. The outlook for FY 84 is guardedly optimistic with the Administration still recommending zero funding and Congress leaning toward funding at the FY 83 level.

Under the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, LSCA was extended through the 1984 fiscal year. The House of Representatives is currently considering the Library Services and Construction Act amendments of 1983, which will extend LSCA through FY 88.

Continuing Education for Librarians

The South Carolina State Library has long recognized the need to provide a continuing education program for public and institutional librarians at all levels: professional, pre-professional and clerical, and for public library trustees. Grants are awarded to attend conferences, seminars, and academic courses in librarianship. When appropriate, the State Library also plans and provides workshops in specific subject areas.

During 1982-83, grants were awarded to four pre-professional librarians to attend courses in the foundations of library media and in personnel management. Six staff members from the Spartanburg County Library received tuition grants to attend a class in sign language to make them better able to communicate with the deaf. Thirteen non-professional librarians representing a like number of county library systems attended a one-week academic course in Reference Skills and Tools offered by the University of South Carolina College of Library and Information Science with the cooperation of the State Library.

Four professional librarians received grants to attend the American Library Association's pre-conferences in the areas of automated circulation systems and library space planning. Two county library directors and a State Library staff member received grants to attend a conference on on-line services sponsored by the Southeastern Library Association. Two library directors received grants to attend a seminar on fund raising and library building programs.

Two members of the State Library Field Staff and a county library director attended the first Public Library Association's conference in Baltimore. Other State Library staff members attended workshops on space planning, personnel management, computer programming, and various workshops given by sections of the South Carolina Library Association.

In March, forty-five public and institutional librarians attended a workshop on Literacy Awareness sponsored by the State Library in cooperation with the South Carolina Literacy Association.

In May, the State Library's Reader Services Department held its first Cooperative Reference Exchange at the State Library with twenty-six representatives of public, academic, and technical education center librarians in attendance.

Library Service for the Disadvantaged

Due to the late receipt of FY 83 federal funds, FY 82 funds were used for grants to 20 county and regional library systems to establish, expand, and extend library service to the disadvantaged in South Carolina. Once again, the uncertainty of future LSCA funding made it necessary to award grants for projects to libraries which could assure their continuation with local funds.

A grant was made to assist one regional library system develop minimum levels of service and financial support prerequisite for library services to the disadvantaged. Through grants made to nine county library systems and one regional library system for the purpose of expanding library extension programs and improving access to library service in rural and other isolated areas, eight bookmobiles were purchased, one bookmobile collection was upgraded, and services in a branch library located in a low income area were significantly improved. Grants were awarded to two county library systems for literacy pilot projects and to seven county and regional library systems for innovative outreach activities.

Film Service

The State Library's 16mm film program supplements and strengthens the resources of South Carolina public and state institutional libraries. The films are documentary, informational, and recreational films for all ages and are used by public and state institutional libraries to meet the informational and recreational needs of library patrons. The collection includes some 1,381 films and is updated by constant additions. The catalog of the film collection is revised or supplemented periodically and distributed to all public and institutional libraries to assist them in using the film service.

A study was done in FY 82 to determine the feasibility of circulating films from the State Library's collection to community and civic organizations, through county public libraries. During FY 83, the four county public libraries which participated in this experiment in expanded film services encountered no major problems. As a result, this service will be extended to other county public and regional libraries in FY 83-84.

In FY 83, the Field Service Librarian for Audio-Visual Services made 26 field trips to provide in-service training, technical assistance, and guidance in planning, programming, and promotions for the staffs of participating libraries. A quarterly newsletter provides information about new acquisitions, local film programs, and suggested activities.

Since the film program began, the State Library has conducted three statewide and four regional film workshops. Four regional children's film workshops will be conducted in FY 84.

The number of libraries participating in the program has increased from 31 in 1974 to 48 in 1982. A total of 9,377 films were shown to an audience of 108,312 this year.

Library Service to Children

In order to provide better library service for children, the State Library assists public and institutional libraries in planning and evaluating services, developing stronger materials collections, training and orienting staff members, and promoting and publicizing activities.

During fiscal year 1982-1983, over 27,000 children in South Carolina participated in a summer reading program designed to encourage children's reading which was co-sponsored by the State Library and public libraries. One workshop was held in two locations for children's librarians, and workshops were also done in several individual libraries. The children's consultant made 68 field visits and worked with general field staff in supervising federal grants-in-aid related to serving children.

In May, 1983, the first supplement to the Early Childhood Media Clearinghouse catalog was released. The supplement includes many items purchased for the special collection at the State Library. The Clearinghouse now lists almost 500 non-print materials on early childhood education and development available for loan from 37 state agencies, institutions, and organizations to assist with improving the skills of parents and those working with young children.

Institutional Library Services

Library service to residents of state-supported institutions is an adjunct to therapy as well as part of an institution's educational and recreational programs. With mandates from both federal and state government, the South Carolina State Library has developed a program for institutional libraries that includes the services of consultants, workshops for administrators and librarians, scholarships for library personnel, reference assistance and interlibrary loan and grants-in-aid for the purchase of materials. Through these measures, many of the state's institutional libraries are integral parts of their agencies' total rehabilitative plans as well as resource centers for residents.

Thirty-four institutions maintained by seven state departments and agencies participate in this project, providing library service to 20,678 residents. Of these, fifteen offer full service under the direction of qualified library personnel. In addition, fifteen adult correctional facilities are served from a central library division maintained by the Department of Corrections.

Four institutions too small to provide full-service library programs are served by a special project of the State Library. Three addictions centers and a vocational rehabilitation center annually receive collections of paperback books especially selected for their residents' use in recreation or therapy.

In FY 83, the State Institutional Consultant made 91 field trips to state institutional libraries.

Public Library Construction

In March 1983, funds became available under the Library Services and Construction Act Title II for public library construction under the so-called "Jobs Bill" which contained $50 million in LSCA Title II funds with $779,110 being allocated to South Carolina. The State Library immediately developed a plan and held a workshop for public librarians and trustees to inform them of the procedures to be followed in applying for funds. Priorities have been established for the submission of applications which include a combination of the need for improved library facilities, the current rate of unemployment in each county, and the readiness to proceed with a construction project.

In May, the State Library received letters of intent to participate in the program from 21 public library systems which included 12 headquarters buildings, 8 branch buildings, and 1 system which would cover energy efficiency renovation. Actual review of grant applications begins on July 15, 1983.

During 1982-83, renovation of the former depot in Belton in Anderson County was completed and the branch library moved into its new quarters there in June. Construction of the Hardeeville Branch in Jasper County was completed in February.

LIBRARY SERVICES TO THE BLIND AND PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED

The South Carolina State Library, Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, has the responsibility for providing library services to any South Carolinian who is unable to read conventional print because of a visual or physical handicap. Books and magazines are available in recorded formats (disc and cassette tape), braille, and large print. The South Carolina State Library administers this service in cooperation with the Library of Congress, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The majority of readers utilize recorded books, and for them DBPH provides a sound reproducer (either a record player or a cassette playback machine). Recorded books and machines are made available by the National Library Service. Braille service is provided under a contract with the North Carolina State Library. The large type print collection has been made available with LSCA funds.

In fiscal year 1983 the library provided service to 6,411 individuals. A total of 130,908 books and magazines were circulated. Not reflected in these totals are many magazines received directly by the readers from the producers under contract to the Library of Congress, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

The South Carolina cassette collection is made up of titles recorded by volunteers. It is primarily titles about South Carolina or by South Carolina authors, but other volunteer produced titles are included. This collection now numbers 251.

Because services are primarily via mail from Cayce, South Carolina, a large print newsletter also available on cassette tape and an In-WATS telephone line with an after hours recording device serve as the principal means of communication. Walk-in users at DBPH during fiscal year 1983 numbered 1,233 for an average of about 5 per day.

Public libraries help promote the service by identifying potential users and assisting new readers by demonstrating how equipment works and explaining how the program operates. In five county libraries -- Anderson, Charleston, Florence, Greenville, and Spartanburg -- the State Library maintains browsing collections of several hundred recorded books. Public libraries are encouraged to involve handicapped individuals in local programming. Since the State Library began providing this service directly in 1973 the service has continually increased. In 1973 the book collection consisted of 10,000 volumes. In 1983 14,861 books were added to the collection which now totals 122,661. In 1973 1,800 people were served; now 5,418 adults and 459 juveniles are served with an additional 996 being served via 249 deposit collections located in nursing homes, hospitals, schools, and adult day care centers.

It is estimated that 43,705 South Carolinians are potentially eligible for the service. The growth in readership is expected to level off at about 15,000. Growth in readership will require a comparable growth in the size of the collection. Implementation of automation has begun with the purchase of three microcomputers with local networking capabilities. Long-range plans call for the acquisition of additional space to enable DBPH to adequately serve its patrons, and the State has given preliminary authorization for space in the Mount Vernon Mill building.

DBPH continued its outreach efforts by 1) personal appearances and speaking engagements and 2) continued participation in the National Library Service's Public Relations Program utilizing public service announcements for radio and television stations.
